I would love to see CCSGA really try and make the CC community more receptive of one another. I was extremely upset with the fact last year that as a campus, we had very few events where we attended as a campus as a whole and we actually united. The only one I could think of was the spring acapella concert. Yes there are the winter balls and other events like that that we have for the whole campus, but those are really just formal parties. We as a campus of only 2000 students should be a lot closer then we are. I would love to strive to have more events that promote people to interact with one another and support the school at the same time.

At Colorado College, I am a member of the Colorado College basketball team, a member of the Black Student Union, I work as a sports marketing assistant, I am a part of Fire Catholic Community, an intramural ref, and also trying to be a part of the relay for life committee.

Time commitments that I have are all the things that I am a part of above. The only time I will miss time is on some weekends with the basketball team.
