The following are general announcements about conferences, events and summer programs. Some will be discussed at the spring meeting.

- 1) We have a date for Colorado Classics Day 2017: it will be Saturday, 30th September at CU Boulder.
- 2) The "Festival of Ideas" will be held at Liberty Common High School in Fort Collins on February 11th. See the attached notice for more information.
- 3) The Fountain Symposium at CU Boulder will be held on Saturday March 3rd. See the attached poster for a list of speakers.
- 4) Deadlines are approaching for various summer programs run by Paideia institute, as well as by organizations such as the American Academy in Rome (AAR) and American School of Classical Studies, Athens (ASCSA). Scholarships for some of these programs are available, especially for middle/high school teachers. Below are a few announcements about spoken Latin workshops and links to recently created Latin podcasts. The Paideia Institute will host its 5th Living Latin in New York City in February. SALVI has announced dates for three different Rusticationes, week-long immersion experiences in West Virginia this July. We also recommend to you three Latin podcasts that are digna audiendi for instructors and students who might like a no-pressure introduction to spoken Latin.
