All students will be tested upon arrival to Colorado College.

Once you have been tested, you must follow enhanced social distancing protocols. You must:
- Remain in your room and avoid all social interactions
- Leave your room only to pick up food available on campus, or to exercise on your own outdoors
- Follow these protocols until you receive your COVID test results

If you test positive, you will:
- Go into isolation for at least 10 days
- If at the 10-day mark your symptoms have resolved, you could be cleared to leave isolation
- If you still have symptoms, you will stay in isolation until the symptoms have cleared and you've been released by the public health department or by a medical provider
- Participate in contact tracing to identify those you may have been in close contact with before your positive test result

If you test negative, you must continue to follow regular safety protocols at all times while at Colorado College, including:
- Wearing a mask over your mouth and nose in all public indoor and outdoor spaces
- Maintaining a distance of six feet from others at all times
- Washing your hands frequently and for 20 seconds
- Avoiding gatherings of more than 10 people; preferably hang out with those with whom you are living
- Covering your coughs and sneezes and avoiding touching your face
- Cleaning surfaces you come in contact with often, like your cell phone
- Staying home and avoiding others when you feel sick
